Christian Brothers plans to add 5 to 6 auto repair stores in area

Posted: September 6, 2010

Indianapolis -- Christian Brothers Automotive Corp. plans to add five to six stores in the Indianapolis area in the next four years and is looking for local owner-operators. The family-owned Houston chain is known for the upscale decor of its auto repair stores, which include plush waiting rooms and brick-and-stone exteriors with gabled roofs. The first Indianapolis area store, with about 5,000 square feet, could open as early as next summer, said Josh Wall, vice president of franchise and strategic development.
